Eighth Annual Leadership Training Conference
June 26, 27 and 28, 2007
Westin Hotel and Conference Center, Rancho Mirage, California

February 1, 2007

Dear Federal Executive:

Women in Federal Law Enforcement (WIFLE), a not-for-profit organization working to promote the value that women bring to law enforcement, will hold its eighth annual leadership training conference June 26, 27, and 28, 2007, at the Westin Hotel and Conference Center in Rancho Mirage, California. This year's conference program will focus on leadership skills necessary for advancement into the ranks of government and the senior executive level as well as provide an examination of key investigative issues faced by federal law enforcement. The challenges women face in a federal law enforcement agency and planning for your financial future will be the focus of our third day featuring "You and Your Federal Career." Registration is $475.00 before April 30, 2007, and $525.00 after that date. Please visit our web site at www.WIFLE.org for all details. Enclosed is a registration form that can be duplicated. WIFLE has reserved the entire hotel for this conference.

On opening day, invited welcoming keynote speaker Deborah Spero, Deputy Commissioner of U.S. Customs and Border Protection will kick off this exciting conference. Following the opening, we have a director from the Franklin Covey Institute discussing leadership and trust and then a dynamic presentation by the International Association of Chiefs of Police on leadership and collaboration. This new leadership-training program was developed in conjunction with the West Point Military Academy. Both leadership general assemblies should be invigorating for all of our attendees. Not to be missed is our "power panel" of outstanding leaders in our federal law enforcement community. Join us for our keynote power panel on June 27 featuring invited speakers Karen Tandy, Administrator of the Drug Enforcement Administration, John Clark, Director of the United States Marshals Service, and Mark Sullivan, Director of the United States Secret Service. This two-hour panel will share insights and strategies for success in personal careers and for the agencies they lead. Visit our web site for all workshop information and other topics presented during this training at www.WIFLE.org.

Last year, over 500 people from the federal, state, local, and international law enforcement community attended our leadership training conference. WIFLE has several goals including the recruitment, retention and promotion of women in Federal law enforcement occupations, and the continued development of an information sharing and support network. The annual training conference provides the opportunity for its members and supporters to promote these goals in a collaborative and cooperative learning environment.

Time & Convenience, Inc. is the official conference planner handling all matters for WIFLE concerning this conference. All registrations should be accomplished online; however, provisions have been made for mail-in and phone registrations. Any questions, please contact Ms. Carolyn Heafner of Time & Convenience at 1-866-39WIFLE or 1-410-451-0002, extension 202, facsimile 1-410-451-7373, or email: cheafner@timeandconvenience.com.

I would like to personally invite you to our opening ceremony on June 26 if your travel schedule permits. We look forward to meeting you and your agency's personnel at this year's conference.

Sincerely,

Margaret M. Moore
Executive Director
