The 2008 Calibre Press Street Survival for Women Seminar promises to be the most dynamic, intense and visually stimulating training experience available to today's female law enforcement professionals. This seminar includes the latest in gender-specific research, scientific principles, and tactical demonstrations to help female police officers train and perform at their best.

Calibre Press remains dedicated to teaching law enforcement officers' strategies and skills they need to STAY SAFE and achieve peak performance in all aspects of life. Presented by nationally recognized law enforcement professionals, Street Survival for Women Seminar is reinforced with real-life videos, photographs, and survivor stories to motivate, inform and inspire everyone who attends. You will leave this seminar enthused, revitalized and proud of what you do every day on the streets of your community.

By attending the 2008 Street Survival® for Women Seminar, you will:

- Develop and maintain your survival mindset; learn to WIN
- Study effective communication skills both on the job & at home
- Examine training and equipment issues specific to the female mind & body
- Observe tactical updates and skills demonstrations you need NOW
- Learn to properly manage your pregnancy on the job
- Learn off-duty survival skills that you can teach to those you love
- Learn "real world" methods to enhance your career and ensure your ultimate survival

This was excellent! I enjoyed myself immensely. I cannot wait to attend future seminars. Thanks for the openness, humor, and GREAT info!

-Maria Nobles, Deputy Sheriff Los Angeles, CA
