Henley-Putnam University to Offer Scholarship in Support of Local Law Enforcement Officers

Henley-Putnam University (www.Henley-Putnam.edu), a premier university for online higher education in the field of Strategic Security, is pleased to announce the creation of a new Presidential Scholarship for the men and women of local law enforcement.

"As federal, state, and local law enforcement agencies work together to ensure that we are equipped to handle a broad range of security threats, the role of local law enforcement continues to grow in importance as a first line of defense. To that end, Henley-Putnam University is dedicated to supporting the men and women of local law enforcement and as such is pleased to offer the opportunity for qualified candidates who are currently employed in local law enforcement to receive the Dr. Michael Corcoran Presidential Scholarship", according to Greg Von Gehr, CEO.

Dr. Corcoran, one of the founders of Henley-Putnam University as well as the University President started his career in local law enforcement before moving into a role within the US Secret Service. Dr. Corcoran is dedicated to advancing the essential bonds between law enforcement organizations and in supporting up and coming leaders within the law enforcement community.

Individuals who are looking to pursue their online degree in the areas of Intelligence, Terrorism and Counterterrorism Studies, and Management of Personal Protection can visit Henley-Putnam.edu to learn more about the University, the Presidential Scholarship, and speak to an admissions coordinator. All applicants must apply and be granted the scholarship prior to December 31, 2008.
